U. S. STANDS PAT ON REPARATIONS

France Must Make Next Move If U. S. Plan Is Pursued

American Government Has Gone as Far as It Can in Pointing Way Towards Solution of Reparations Issue— Allied Premiers Meet Again.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The United States Government has already done all it can to point a way to solution of the reparations crisis, it was said authoritatively today. Secretary Hughes' suggestion contained in his New Haven speech made in the friendliest spirit, it was said, is before the French government from which any action to take up the matter must come. It was made clear that the Washington government could not refuse an invitation for the creation of such a commission because control of the reparations situation is not in American hands but in those of the Allies. There was no disposition in Washington, it was added, to seek to force the financial commission or any other plan on the Allies. An administration spokesman made it plain that the American government would go no further than it has gone in the reparations situation. It was pointed out that the Allies even before the Paris meeting of premiers assembled had been advised as to American views and willingness to help through the medium of Secretary Hughes' speech recently at New Haven.

BONAR LAW AND POINCARÉ MEET AGAIN
(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PARIS, Jan. 5.—Although divided by the German reparations issue upon which Great Britain and France split at yesterday's conference, premiers Poincaré and Bonar Law met today for discussions of other questions on friendly terms.
The French premier called on the British prime minister and the two were together for half an hour discussing the new situation and fields of action on other than the reparations issue on which France and Britain may co-operate. The conversation was described as friendly and it was said in British circles that the French and British delegations would continue to work together at Lausanne. The two premiers had another 20 minute talk before the midday train left with the Britons on their way to London.

Judge Odum Charges Sheriff to Search All Entering Courtroom as Public Hearing Begins.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
BASTROP, La., Jan. 5.—Hearings of charges of masked band depredations in Morehouse parish laid by Governor John M. Parker at the door of the Ku Klux Klan of the parish looked to be the climax of more than three months of investigation by the Department of Justice agents and State investigators was formally opened today before Judge Fred L. Odum in the Sixth Judicial district. Judge Odum immediately summoned the sheriff and told him to search all persons entering the courtroom. After he had made a statement of the purpose of the hearing, the hearing adjourned until two o'clock.

Young Blood For Wall St. Firms

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—On the first of the year more young blood was admitted to partnerships in Stock Exchange and banking firms than ever before. The old trusts in the financial district were more than amazed to learn that the average age of three new members of one of the largest Stock Exchange commission houses was twenty-eight, and in addition half a dozen other firms had taken on young blood. It is pointed out by the heads of these firms that these young men would be in the line of the war the day after tomorrow. The theory is that the war has been the cause of the financial center for "young blood" and hardly a house downtown has begun to recruit the day after tomorrow that street you when you want new blood to take a flyer in the market.
This, however, is not the generally accepted view of the best thought of the street. The theory is that the war has been the cause of the financial center for "young blood" and hardly a house downtown has begun to recruit the day after tomorrow that street you when you want new blood to take a flyer in the market.

MANY PEOPLE KILLED IN RACE RIOT

Budget Discussion Expected To Begin At An Early Date

Members of the city council are understood to be giving preliminary consideration to the city's programme of public work during the coming fiscal year. If Col. A. B. Carrington follows the course he adopted last year, he will hold a special meeting of the council at one of the country clubs at which time the major needs of the city will be discussed with a view to formulating a definite policy in disbursing the city's money to the best civic advantage. No call for such a meeting has been issued but consideration of the budget is likely to be begun during February.

Discussions with some members of the council lead to the belief that there will not be so much activity in street improvement during the coming fiscal year as during the past. Craghead street is due to be repaved at a considerable expense and there will be probably several residential streets improved. The council, however, faces the repayment of the money put up by citizens for improving Main and Virginia avenues and this will constitute no small item. If the present reports be true there will be a tendency to effect economies and a determined effort to curtail the city's indebtedness and to eliminate as far as possible the large loan. Sewers are to be given prime consideration according to present indications. This has been a development long advocated by the city health officer but one which has necessarily been forced to the rear in the city's recent task of improving streets. With Lynchburg already boasting of a "0" in the typhoid mortality column, the necessity of modern sewerage is being stressed here and it is quite likely that a determined effort will be made to rid Danville of more than eight hundred homes which have primitive forms of sanitation and which so long as they remain will subject the city to the constant danger of typhoid infection. Lynchburg, it is pointed out has slightly more than 100 unsewered homes—these having a special scavenger service which is doubtless responsible for the total absence of typhoid fever in that city. The sewerage problem in Danville will however present some difficulties on account of the topography of those areas which are not severed at the present.

Crissinger May Be Comptroller

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—D. J. Crissinger, present comptroller of the Federal Reserve Board, is expected to be named as the next Federal Reserve Board in a few days according to information in high administration circles. He will succeed to the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Clegg.

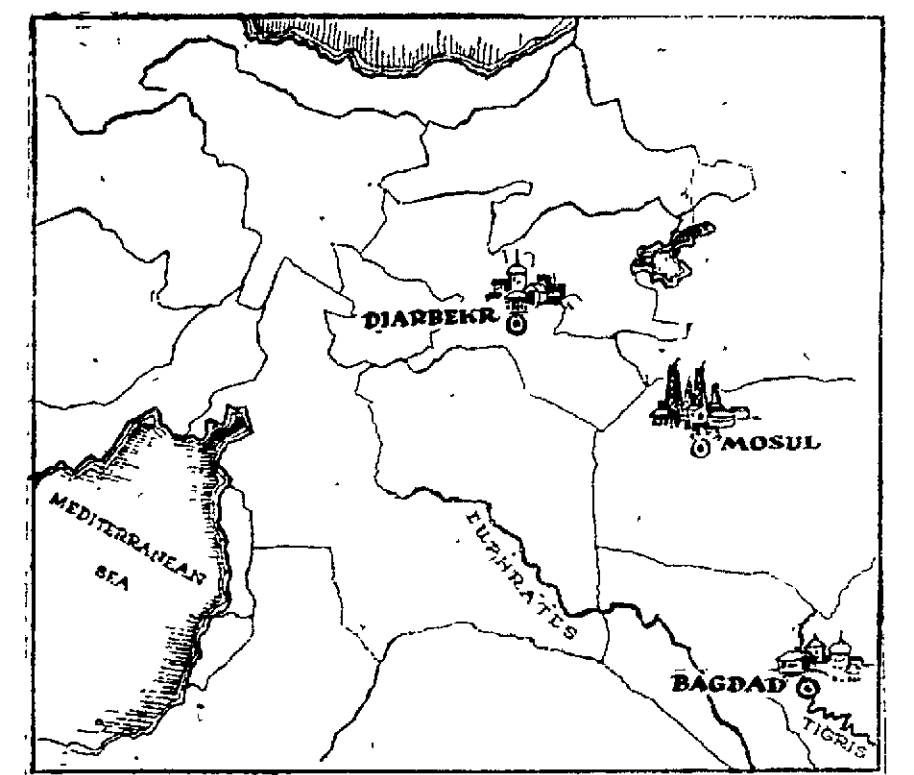

Keith Carlin Is Being Sought On Charge of Assault

(Special to The Bee.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—Keith Carlin, 34 years old, son of former Congressman Charles C. Carlin, of Alexandria, Va., is being sought by the police on the charge of having beaten up the janitress of the fashionable Moulton apartment house on New Hampshire avenue and with having administered a beating to Miss Mary Gertrude Keane, his woman companion.
The alleged assault which ended in the janitress being placed under care of physicians, and the breaking up of considerable bric-a-brac, chinaware, glassware and furniture began when Carlin and Miss Keane went to the apartment yesterday morning and he attempted to force her to have breakfast served in the apartment. Carlin is also accused of having thrown a lighted lamp at the janitress as she tried to force herself from his grasp. She is under care of two physicians.

Wives of Striking Miners to Picket Mayor's Bureau

EDMONTON, Alberta, Jan. 4.—Wives of 125 striking coal miners imprisoned after clashes with non-union workers and police, today prepared to picket the mayor's bureau, in an attempt to enforce a demand that the city provide food, clothing and other necessities for their jailed husbands.
The women first made such demands on the mayor yesterday, visiting his office in a body after a prolonged session of prayer and fasting of their husbands. The mayor refused to be bothered by the women. When, however, they asked that three of their number be appointed to serve on the board, advising the present chairman was provided against foreigners, the mayor refused to appoint them. Leonard Barlow, one of the twenty-nine striking pickets arrested yesterday, was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment for assault upon a worker. He also was ordered tried on charges of having attended a unlawful assembly.

Mormon Church Will Be Built In City, Says Pastor

That Danville in the near future is to have a Mormon church, or the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, as the followers prefer to call it, became known this morning when Elder W. B. Waldron made his announcement to a reporter for The Bee. The movement has been under way for some time and developments are now drawing to a head. The board of directors are already looking over various sites suitable for their church but as yet none have been decided on. Elder Waldron is taking an active part in the movement and said this morning that it is hoped to start on the church in the near future. It is the plan at present to erect a handsome structure of brick, but by no means an elaborate one he explained. Elder Waldron also revealed the information that a movement by Mormons has been going on here for a period of about five years and that there are now between fifty and six hundred followers in Danville. The services are at present being held in Jefferson Hall on North Main street and will continue until the new church is ready for occupancy.

According to Mr. Waldron the parent church which has headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah, would materially assist in meeting the financial requirements necessary for the building of the church. He said that usually the church through its Board of Missions would double the sum raised in any one locality and that it was as true that in some instances the parent organization shouldered more than half of the cost. He could not say just how much money the Mission Board would give in Danville.

There have been recurrent reports that the Mormons would seek to build here but none of these reports have been authentic. Today's announcement is the first definite news of the church through its Board of Missions in Danville. The Mormon church is said to be very wealthy and has been conducting missionary work for years. Their apostles are to be found in many places and they have been active in some of the more remote rural sections of Virginia.

Co-Ops Need Not Report Their Sales Saunders Rules

(Special to The Bee.)
RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 5.—Attorney Frederick H. Saunders ruled today that the Tobacco Growers Association is not required to make any report regarding the sales of tobacco made for the members of that association, but that all public warehouses selling tobacco must make such reports each month.

The Attorney-General says the law is very plain and that the omission of any reference to the tobacco growers' organization makes it plain that they are eliminated and are not included in the provisions of the law requiring reports by warehouse proprietors, whether owned and operated by corporations or individuals.

Negro Who Slew Ewell Cox Gets Term Of 30 Years

(Special to The Bee.)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., Jan. 5.—A jury sitting in the Henry Circuit court here last night convicted Harvey Smith, a negro, of killing Ewell Cox, prominent Patrick county merchant of Fayerdale, and sentenced him to serve thirty years in the State penitentiary. The trial lasted for two days. A brother of Smith also indicted in the trial, never having been captured. Cox, the State held was waylaid by a group of negroes, including Smith, who shot the Fayerdale man who was walking along the road. The killing took place at the intersection of the road and the highway. The negroes being drawn up to one side of the road under a shelving bank and out of Cox's view who walked into the trap. Cox, who was shot in the back of the head, was killed. The jury returned the verdict of guilty and sentenced Smith to thirty years in the State penitentiary. The trial was held in the afternoon and the jury deliberated for several hours.

More than thirty whisky violation cases have been heard here, only one negro, John Sneed, of Danville, being acquitted. The total amount of fines imposed was approximately $2,000 and jail terms totaled thirty-two months. Most of the convicted persons drew a dollar fine and thirty-day jail term. Three were fined $100 and given two months while in one instance a $250 fine and a five month term was given.

In the case of the Danville negro, who won a only acquittal, he was freed because of his straight-forward story of the whole affair while James Scott, who was with him at the time, gave such a conflicting and false statement, that he was convicted and sentenced to five months in jail and fined $250.

Ward Faces $200,000 as Boy's Slayer

Citizens Battle With 25 Negroes Behind Barricade

White Men and Score of Blacks Reported Killed— Village Is Burned, Only 3 Buildings Being Left.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
ROSEWOOD, Fla., Jan. 5.—Hundreds of citizens were preparing early today to renew their effort to smash a barricade behind which 25 negroes all heavily armed, are making a stand here in a small hut. Two white men are known to be dead and three wounded. About a score of negroes were reported to have been killed.

ENTIRE VILLAGE IS BURNED BY MOB

OTTER CREEK, Fla., Jan. 5.—Two white men, two negroes women and one negro man, are dead and it is believed three are others injured as result of the result of the race trouble late last night at Rosewood 12 miles from Gainesville. With the exception of three buildings the village was burned by a mob after daybreak.

Swearing Falsely Results In A Fine

Swearing falsely to the age of a young woman bent on marriage last November, proved costly to L. T. Whit, of Halifax county, who yesterday pleaded guilty before Judge Price Withers in the corporation court to perjury and who was fined $100. No evidence was heard by the court but James H. Green, deputy clerk of the corporation court, was called before the grand jury which indicted Whit and is understood to have testified that on November 23rd, Whit swore that Katie Wilborn was 21 years of age when he married her.

MOTORCYCLE DRIVER HURT

M. P. Magaly was painfully injured last night when the motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by an automobile and knocked down. The accident occurred on West Main street near Ballou park. The driver of the large car which ran into the motorcycle did not stop and Schoolfield officers were looking for him late last night, having given chase in the direction he took. Magaly, at the time apparently badly hurt, was rushed to Edinboro hospital, where it was soon discovered that he was not seriously injured. He was complaining with his arm and side mostly.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough Is Childs Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at Home It's Cheap—but You Can't Beat It

If you want to take care of that bad, hanging on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Parmit (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so quickly and surely on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It halts the inflammation, the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membranes free from irritation and mucus follow.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus dripping, clogged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint—ask for Parmit (double strength)—ask plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want—adv.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Boils Quit Quick!

S. S. S. Will Prove to You in Your Own Case the "How" and "Why" of its Remarkable Blood-Cleansing Power!

There is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense tells us, "Common-sense also stops boils." S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power. S. S. S. builds blood power. It builds the blood. That is what makes fighting-boils. Fighting-boils destroys impurities. It fights boils. It always wins! It fights pimples. It fights skin eruptions. It builds power, thinking power, the tightest power that builds a man up into success. It gives women the health, the angelic complexion and the charm that moves the world. These are the reasons that have made S. S. S. today the great blood-cleanser, body-builder, success builder, and it's why people have made tests of it from the south of Washington, D. C., to the north.

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it." S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

Heldman Admits He Was Convict

There have been no new material developments in the case of Carl Heldman alias I. C. Hamilton, an escaped convict from the state penitentiary in Jefferson City, Missouri, and caught here recently by Police Officer F. T. Harris in the act of making a wholesale robbery at the West End filling station. The only one who is the man in question but he does deny that he has an unfinished term to serve in Missouri. In talking to the police yesterday Heldman admitted that he had once been a convict in that state and was serving a term for an assault. He also admits that he did make his escape but later voluntarily returned and completed the sentence. He says this was in December 1917 and that he has not been in that place since. However, Heldman's wife has already shown the police letters sent her by her husband only comparatively recently and these were postmarked Jefferson City.

It is probable that Heldman will be dealt with by the local authorities first and should be given a term in jail or the pen he will be turned over to Missouri authorities upon expiration of the sentence, should it be learned that he really still has a term in that state to complete, with additional time for escaping.

Rum Drummer Was Arrested

A man who gave his name as George W. Allen, of Patrick county, was arrested last night by Police Officer W. T. Kessler on charges of violating the Mapp act and obtaining money under false pretense. Allen's arrest was the result of his activities yesterday in soliciting liquor orders from business men on the business streets of the city and in several instances obtaining money by falsely representing himself.

Judging from the number of complaints made by business men, Allen had been active in soliciting liquor orders. The police know of at least five merchants who were approached by the man and others who gave him amounts of money ranging from fifty cents to two dollars. Allen, it is said, would approach the proprietor of a store, tell him a certain business friend had ordered some whisky but he needed a small amount of money to pay a boy to deliver it. When Allen was arrested a half pint of whisky was found in his pocket.

TWELFTH NIGHT AT THE Y. W. C. A.

With the thought of entertaining the entire membership of the Y. W. C. A. as well as friends of the association who are not members, the membership committee has sent to each Y. W. C. A. member a cheer, little card in Christmas colors during the following message of invitation.

"On first Twelfth Night, the story is told. How wise men brought their gifts of gold. To Him whose birth we celebrate. With music song and joyous tale. Please join with us in Twelfth Night January 6th 8 p. m. here."

It has long been the custom in merry England to make Twelfth Night a time of revelry as a fitting close to the Christmas season. In many of the old English houses Twelfth Night is celebrated by "Mummers Play." Not only do the mummers entertain the guests during this frolicking time but the spirit of the occasion spreads into old and young center into the "joyous" scene. The cast for the Mummers play to be given at the Y. W. C. A. on Jan. 6, is made up of the following well known persons:

Father Christmas... Walter Squires
King of Egypt... Stanley Cunningham
Prince George... George Kelsker
Turkish Knight... Waverly Cousins
Doctor... Herbert Hoffman
Jack Vinney... Dave Graham
Capt. Slasher... James Hamlin
Happy Jack... Milton Herman
Rehearsal... Geo. Geoghegan, Jr.
Musician... Mrs. Hugh L. Guerrant

A group of girls will impersonate the guests in an English home. The girls are all members of the Young Business Girls Club and are as follows:

Walker Sneed, Louise Walker, Beulah Barnes, Mabel Jordan, Roberta, Carter Irma Mitchell, Reba Mitchell, Elva Adams, Gertie Adams, Louise Vaughn, Frances Vaughn, Mabel Thomas, Eloise Thomas, Mabel Secombe.

At the appointed time Deebelbed cuts the huge cake which is to be like the famous Twelfth Night cake used in England. After the cake is cut Deebelbed crowns the King and queen.

The Recreation Hall where the Mummers Play will be given, will present the appearance of a forest with its decorations of fragrant pines; and with gay coloring of the costumes the occasion is likely to be one of unusual beauty and charm.

TOWNES NAMED COM. CHAIRMAN

F. W. Townes was elected chairman of the Public Works Committee of the City Council at a meeting yesterday afternoon. Wayne H. Harrison being elected vice chairman. Another transfer was also made yesterday. George P. Geoghegan, Jr., being placed on the Public Welfare Committee and Guy Walton taking a leave on the Public Works Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Public Welfare Committee this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

COLLECTIONS OF COMMUNITY CHEST HAVE BEEN GOOD

We reported last night that collections of the first installments of the subscriptions to the Community Chest were good, a large percentage of the money due the first of the year having been paid. Those who are in arrears in their payments are urged to send in checks at an early date so as to clear up the matter. There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Community Chest next Tuesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce to apportion pro rata among the eight participating organizations the money that has been collected to date from the drive.

F. H. HARRISON SERIOUSLY ILL

Widespread regret and anxiety will be caused in this city by information received yesterday by Dr. I. C. Harrison, of this city, that his son, Francis H. Harrison, a student of theology at the Southern Baptist seminary, Louisville, Ky., had developed cerebro-spinal meningitis and that he was regarded as seriously ill. Mr. Harrison who is widely known and generally esteemed in Danville, has been ill for some time with a malady which for a long time baffled the diagnosticians, and during his period of illness his father visited him. Information of the development of this serious disease will cause widespread regret among friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and the young man.

In the inception of his illness it was thought at first that he might have some appendix trouble, but the acute pain which affected his abdomen and sides did not comfort with the theory of an inflamed appendix. Ultimately what are regarded as unmistakable symptoms of meningitis, a disease which is a scourge to nursing skill will be spared in combating the progress of the disease.

NEW APARTMENT HOUSE PLANNED

C. M. Webber has been awarded the contract for the new apartment which Elice Gwyn will build at the corner of Main and Broad streets. The building will be three stories and will contain nine apartments. It will cost $40,000. The architect is E. R. James.

Hollow tile will be used for the exterior walls and there will be a stucco finish. The floors will be of oak throughout. Each apartment has been designed to conform to the latest ideas in convenience and adaptability. The best material will be used throughout the building and the apartment will be among the handsomest in the city.

Work on the building will commence immediately.

Personal

MOROTOCK MASONS MAKE A WORK SPEED-RECORD

At a well attended stated communication of Morotock Lodge, No. 214, A. F. & A. M., held in Pythian hall Wednesday night, the L. A. degree was conferred on three well known citizens. The lodge has been a busy place under the mastery of Lohan Silverman, and all the degrees are developing proficiency in the work.

In addition to the conferment of the degree on three candidates, the lodge testified its appreciation of the building master, Ed. Baker, by presenting to him a handsome gold-headed cane. The presentation was made in a brief address by a visiting master in a vein of pleasant, meriting into appreciation of the work of the building master. Mr. Baker, who has long been active in work of the local lodges, made a grateful and feeling acceptance of the gift and pledged his services to local Masonry whenever and wherever they may be needed. After the closing of the lodge, Mr. Baker confided to a friend that he hoped to preserve that cane and present it to his grand-son. He is still a bachelor, but evidently still cherishes hopes.

Morotock made a speed record last night in pulling off the degree work, the presentation ceremony and the opening and closing in full form, all in less than two hours. Past Master J. T. Posey delivered the lecture.

C. D. C. BAND HAS NEW YEAR MEET

The Coast Defense Corps Band of this city held its first meeting of the New Year Wednesday night. After an excellent rehearsal refreshments were served. Col. S. B. Minor and W. D. Kyle made talks.

A committee was named at the meeting to make arrangements for a minstrel show to be held in the near future.

The band now has 39 members and hold rehearsals regularly every Wednesday evening. The whole band is interested in the work of the band and invited to attend these rehearsals.

Does Woman Pay?

BDULAH L. LIVINGSTONE

DOES the woman pay?
"Of course," says Beulah Livingstone, the Talmadge sisters' publicity director, and correspondent for English papers, "but the man also pays."

Nobody goes scot free.
"Everything in life must be paid for—fame, love, freedom, success, popularity, genius, what not."

"The person who labors hard and long is bound to arrive one day, but he pays for material gain in spiritual loss or in human bondage. Maybe he has caused the coast guard cutter Modoc to meet the Aquarius off the mouth of the Cape Fear River, apparently were convinced that Bergdoll was not aboard but they were busy tonight investigating reports that a man answering Bergdoll's description had been seen here yesterday. Captain Dines Taylor of the Aquarius, told newspapermen that a man who resembled photographs of Bergdoll published here, had sought to join his crew at Bremen. He did not suspect the man at the time, he added, but did not take him as there was no vacancy in the crew."

Shadows that have followed the Congressman and his party for 24 hours were then removed as were guards placed over his two airplanes at Wrightsville Beach.

The Congressman was interviewed in his room at a downtown hotel by Meekin and officials of the American Legion.

While the Congressman was given a clean bill of health by the federal officers, Agent Meekin exacted a promise that Herrick notify him before attempting to leave the city.

Herrick announced that he would hop off some time tomorrow for Washington.

Representative Herrick Wednesday had found himself the center of all the attention that had been bestowed upon rumors that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft dodger, was about to land along the North Carolina coast.

The two airplanes arrived Monday about the time reports reached here that Bergdoll was aboard the American steamer Aquarius bound here from Bremen and when the Aquarius put in Wednesday without the notorious draft dodger, American Legion members who had been patrolling the beaches turned their full attention to the Congressman and to his two pilots who gave their names of legionnaires was placed around the airplanes parked at Wrightsville Beach and city detectives started to "shadow" the airplane arrivals. Mr. Herrick who had explained that he was enroute from American Ga., to Washington, D. C., with the planes was permitted to be one of the first to go aboard the Aquarius when a searching party combed the vessel for Bergdoll, but that did not cause the local efforts to relax.

The government searching party on the ship was headed by J. C. Meekin, Department of Justice Agent and A. L. McCaskill, collector of customs.

It was learned that plans were laid by officials to take him in custody on suspicion but that members of the legion had prevented this, saying they had rather leave him free so they could observe his actions. The suspicious ones it was explained, were taking no chances that some one posing as the "flying Congressman" might really be here with the airplanes in an effort to aid Bergdoll, and even Department of Justice agents were keeping track of the visitors.

Captain Dines Taylor of the Aquarius, told newspapermen that a man who resembled photographs of Bergdoll published here, had sought to join his crew at Bremen. He did not suspect the man at the time, he added, but did not take him as there was no vacancy in the crew."

Shadows that have followed the Congressman and his party for 24 hours were then removed as were guards placed over his two airplanes at Wrightsville Beach.

The Congressman was interviewed in his room at a downtown hotel by Meekin and officials of the American Legion.

While the Congressman was given a clean bill of health by the federal officers, Agent Meekin exacted a promise that Herrick notify him before attempting to leave the city.

HEALTH REPORT AT NEWPORT NEWS BEST IN YEARS

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 4.—Only 13 cases of contagious disease are in this city at the present time, the number being divided between three different diseases, showing one of the best records presented by the department for some time, the authorities state.

When the record board of diseases was cleared not a single case of typhoid was left over from December, and the New Year started with a zero indicating no typhoid in Newport News.

Five cases of diphtheria are recorded so far, there being four at the close of the year and another was added today. The authorities were able to keep the city within the limits of a limited number of diphtheria cases while the rest of the state showed a near epidemic.

Efforts of the school authorities in this respect in preventing the disease and its spread has been responsible for the small number of cases.

Four cases of scarlet fever are in the city but two of these will be released within a day or two, the authorities state. Few cases have been treated here in the number has been comparatively small in proportion to the population compared to other cities. The records show that the school and officials states they have been no cases of this disease for sometime. Measles and chicken pox also have been eliminated.

NAVY SECURES FUNDS FOR NEW BASEBALL FIELD

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 4.—That the Navy Athletic Association realized practically sufficient funds for the Penn State game in Philadelphia and the Navy-Penn State game in Washington last season to cover the cost of the new baseball field and stadium now in course of construction on the government reservation here was revealed in the report of Commander Douglas L. Howard, secretary-treasurer, read at a recent meeting of the association last night.

The report showed that Navy's share of gate receipts from the Penn game amounted to $17,639 and from the Penn State contest $15,750, a total of $33,389. The new baseball field here will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000. The stands will have a seating capacity of 10,000. Final decisions on the Navy agreement for future games and arrangements for the Navy-Penn game were left with the executive committee which will meet soon to discuss the matter.

CUBAN WOMEN SEEK RIGHTS

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 4.—Cuban womanhood will be called to the colors for a campaign to secure equal rights. The opening gun will be fired at a National Women's Congress which is being organized by the National Federation of Cuban Women.

The date has not been fixed, an extensive program consisting of official and personal themes has been arranged as follows:

1. Women's Rights. Constitutional reforms to secure civil and political equality.
2. Social Mission of Cuban Womanhood. Action through public speaking and the press.
3. Women's Work. Protective legislation for female workers and breadwinners.
4. Protection for the Cuban Home. Reformation of legislation affecting property rights of women and children.
5. Moral and Physical Welfare of the Race. Campaigns against social evils and diseases, lewd books, white slave trade and anti-forming drugs.
6. Child Welfare. Assistance in fighting infant mortality and improving the moral and physical standards of Cuba's youth.
7. Social Welfare. Study of arts and sciences, summer colonies, instruction in civil rights.
8. Woman Suffrage. Constitutional reforms.
9. Women in Business. Their actual status and means of improving it.
10. Women on the Farm. Farm classes for women and means of instilling a love for flowers and the beautifying of homes.

The executive committee for the congress is made up of Mrs. Pilar Meriñe de Menéndez, president, and eight vice-presidents. Managers include de Valdes, secretary and five assistant secretaries, and Miss Hortencia Lamar, treasurer.

BUYS NEWSPAPER JUST TO KEEP FAMILY BUSY

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 4.—In order that his children might have something to do when not occupied with their school studies, J. A. Hentz, a rancher, living in the extreme northern portion of Montana, purchased the Thoeny Review, a weekly newspaper published at Thoeny, declared a notice in the publication recently.

MRS. MALLORY TO SEEK NEW TENNIS TITLES ABROAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Molla R. Mallory, national women's tennis champion, has practically completed plans, it was learned today, for departure early in February for France in quest of new court laurels and, incidentally, another test of skill with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French holder of the international women's title.

HUSTON TO KEEP HIS INTEREST IN YANKEE CLUB

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—Colonel T. R. Huston has decided to retain his part ownership of the New York American League Baseball Club which it was announced several months ago he would dispose of the Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

SENIOR SUN. S. LEAGUE GAMES

Mr. Vernon defeated the Christian of the score of 12 to 9 in the opening game of the Senior League after the holiday lay off. Both teams showed lack of practice especially in shooting, one player having fifteen shots at the basket without making a single goal. Mr. Vernon did some clever passing and worked the ball down the floor in a number of ways, but missed many easy shots.

SUPPLY BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Annual supply measures totalling nearly a billion dollars were passed today by the House when it reassembled after the New Year's holiday. They were post office appropriations, highway bill carrying $294,000,000 and the interior bill carrying $294,000,000. No record votes were taken on any of the measures.

Consideration of the agricultural bill was completed before the Christmas recess and the other measures were made ready for a vote last week, but under an agreement between the Republican and the Democrat leadership, the final votes were held up until members absent for the holidays had returned.

Few changes were made by the House in the measures as they came from the committees, the post office bill going through virtually as written, and the agricultural and interior bills being modified only in minor details.

Y. M. C. A. TO PLAY ELON SATURDAY

The Y. M. C. A. representative team plays the Elon College Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Hall. This will no doubt be a fast and aggressive game as this Elon bunch is the aggregation that defeated last year's High School team by the score of 24 to 2. The boys have been practicing faithfully for this game and hope to come out on the long end of the score. The basket ball fans of the city are urged to come out and give the team the support they deserve. It will rest mainly with the patronage of this game whether more high class games will be scheduled, so if Danville people want a strong basketball team this will be their opportunity to show it by their presence and support.

World's Queerest Love Tangle

(Special to The Bee.)
OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 5.—One man who wandered the globe a derelict for 40 years, shunning white men everywhere and fearing to wed.

One man who turned hermit believing himself guilty of a murder he didn't commit.

A woman who became known as "queen" and lived a veritable recluse. A "house of mystery," the doors of which were barred and locked; the windows dark and shaded.

And a negro mammy who had locked the secret of it all in her heart, but lived one day to bare it—too late almost.

No, these are not bits grabbed at random from a half-dozen novels. They are fragments of the "strangest true story" told here by Frank H. Hill in an effort to prove himself heir to a southern fortune.

Wandered Globe.
Hill is the man who restlessly wandered the earth. And this is why, as he relates it:

Back in Civil War days Annie A. Kyle, Louisville (Ky.) belle, was wooed by a Union army officer. Her southern parents would not tolerate such a match.

But they met as lovers do in the best stories, in spite of all barriers. The officer went north and Annie Kyle learned she was threatened with motherhood.

She wrote her lover to return. Meanwhile the Kyle family learned what had happened. Robert Bruce Kyle, a brother of Annie's, met the Union officer with a rifle and shot him.

Believing he had slain the officer, young Kyle fled. The Kyle family, feeling disgraced, left the south and moved to Oakland.

But the officer did not die. He was secretly moved. Annie Kyle believed him dead. She found shelter in the cabin of Liza Hill, her negro mammy, and there bore her child. The baby was given to the mammy to rear as her own. Mammy named him Frank Hill. Finally the Kyles returned to the Oakland home.

The grief-stricken Annie determined on a life of seclusion and lived it. Robert, conscience-stricken and fearful he might one day be called to answer for his supposed crime, trusted few men and grew to be a hermit.

Fears Black Taint.
And Frank Hill believed himself to have negro blood and became a derelict.

Thus the years passed until death took both Annie and Robert, and their home took the name of the derelict.

CODE OF TENNIS RULES ADOPTED

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The code of lawn tennis rules framed by the international rules committee in London December 20 at a meeting attended by representatives of the nations will be submitted for adoption by the United States Lawn Tennis Association at its annual session here February 3. Copies of the new code, brought back by Henry W. Sloane, American representative at the London gathering were made public today.

While a majority of the news in the new code conform or are in many cases identical with those now recognized in this country, several depart to some extent from American regulations. These refer to the weight and size of the ball, the foot fault rule and regulations governing the rest or intermission period between sets in prolonged matches.

HEISMAN GOES TO W. & J. SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, Penn., Jan. 4.—John W. Heisman, former University of Pennsylvania and Georgia Tech football coach has signed a three year contract to coach the Washington and Jefferson gradson squad. It was announced here tonight by E. M. Murphy, graduate manager of Athletics at W. & J. He succeeds Earle A. Neal, the big league baseball star.

PREACHER SAYS REDS WOULD OVERTHROW ALL CHURCH WORK IN U. S.

DEFIANCE, O., Jan. 4.—Agents of Soviet Russia have invaded every large city in the United States and, by means of an organized propaganda, are endeavoring to overthrow all Christian interests and everything in American life that has been developed and sponsored by the Churches.

According to Dr. Martyn Summerbell, Lakemont, New York, president of Starkey Seminary and vice-president of Defiance College, addressing local clergymen here tonight, co-operation among all Christian forces is needed as a means for thwarting the work of paid Russian Bolshevik and Communist agents.

"house of mystery," feared by children and pointed out by their elders. Eventually, Hill went back to live with "mammy," only to take to the woods again.

A year ago, when death had taken my mother, Mammy Hill told me the story, and cleared the mystery," relates Hill. "I know now that I am a white man, but I'm no longer young." He hopes soon to chase his name and win the Kyle family fortune.

The public administrator of Alameda county is closely questioning Hill.

O'DAY, VETERAN UMPIRE, PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO WILLIE KEELER'S EYE

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Hank O'Day, veteran umpire of the major leagues, who has been looking over the big league stars for nearly two score years, regards Willie Keeler, who died New Year day, as the most difficult batsman to cool that he has ever umpired for.

Keeler certainly was a wonder," said O'Day in discussing Keeler. "I don't believe I ever saw him offer at a bad ball."

"When Keeler was at the bat, umpiring was a cinch. It was almost safe to call anything a ball that Keeler failed to offer at."

"Keeler was a wonderful batter and no better place-hitter ever faced a pitcher. Slight of stature, Keeler never hit a ball hard. Opposing infielders and outfielders played him perfectly, yet so uncanny was Keeler's judgment in hitting the ball that he could invariably outguess the opposition."

"I have often heard Keeler shout to the opposing third baseman to get ready, that he was going to bunt. Then he would proceed to do just that very thing, and in a majority of the cases would beat the play."

"Keeler used a short bat and gripped it almost in the center when he faced the pitcher. His holding of the bat was in some ways as freakish as the style of Heine Groh."

"I've seen them all, Wagner, Cobb, Ruth and the rest of the great hitters, but never have I seen a batter with so keen an eye as Keeler."

ARMY-NAVY GAME TO BE PLAYED ON POLO GROUNDS NEXT FALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—The annual army-navy football game will be played at the Polo Grounds, home of the National League Baseball Club, November 24. Secretary Tierney of the club announced tonight after a conference with Colonel Koehless of West Point. The financial arrangements were not made public.

PHILIP B. SHIELD, JR. IS LEGALLY DEAD

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 4.—Philip B. Shield, Jr., the American Relief worker whose mysterious disappearance in Russia several months ago remains unsolved, was declared legally dead today, when Judge W. A. Moncure of the Chancery Court named his brother, C. Stewart Shield executor of the missing man's estate, valued at about $3,000.

Four Millions In Russian Crown Jewels In Grave

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—William B. Williams special agent of the United States Treasury Department tonight confirmed reports that he expected to find $4,000,000 worth of Russian crown jewels in a Brooklyn cemetery to the extent of admitting that he was working "on a Russian Jewel case" and that his search might lead him to open a grave.

Beyond this he would make no comment on a copyrighted article appearing in the Chicago Daily News which stated that secret service agents planned to examine the grave of James Jones, an American seaman in the National Cemetery in Brooklyn, in an investigation of reports that some of the royal Russian jewels had been smuggled into this country in 1920 in Jones' coffin. Officials of the cemetery, situated at Cypress Hills, admitted that government authorities recently had requested records pertaining to a certain grave, but declined to state whether the grave was that of Jones. On reliable authority, however, it was learned that the buried James Jones was buried in the cemetery and that inquiry had concerned his resting place. When he was first questioned about the Chicago story, Williams daily denied any knowledge of it. Then he would neither deny nor confirm it. They he joked.

"We are always looking for the Russian crown jewels," he said. "They are not perennials and bloom the year around. We count the day lost when we don't get a report of them."

Finally he authorized the statement that he was working on a Russian jewel case and admitted that a grave would be opened.

It has been known for some time that customs officials were keeping a sharp watch on any articles from Russia entering this country with duty unpaid. Only a few days ago they seized a crucifix and icon which were the property of a Russian, named "Iliado The Mad Monk of Russia," had brought into the United States when he arrived to study for the Baptist ministry.

200 BARRELS OF LIQUOR LOADED FOR SCOTLAND

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 4.—In the early hours of today and under heavy guard, 200 barrels of whiskey were brought here from a distillery at Cockeysville, Md., and loaded upon a steamship for Leth, Scotland. Customs officials and city policemen stood guard while the liquor, said to be more than ten years old and valued at $200,000 was being transferred to the ship's hold.

Much mystery surrounded the transaction. To head off a possible attempt by raiders to seize the whiskey, stores had been set afloat within the last few days of the expected arrival of a consignment of the beverage from Kentucky for export to Scotland. Reports of its progress from the Blue Grass state were given out and when the sailing of the ship was delayed a day the arrival of the whiskey was declared to lessen the risk it was permitted to remain long at Leth Port.

So its arrival was timed to permit loading the last thing before the vessel sailed today.

CHRISTIANITY IN JAPAN TOKIO, Jan. 4.—One of the closest advisers of the Prince Regent on his trip to Europe was a Christian, and Christianity is now influencing strongly the throne of Japan, declared the Rev. J. P. W. Ziemann, pastor of Tokyo Union Church, in a recent sermon here.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1923.
THE CLOUD ON THE HORIZON.

Says a despatch from Chicago:
"Operators and miners met for the third time at the Great Northern Hotel here today in an effort to find some common ground for a wage agreement which will avert a new coal strike when the existing agreements expire this Spring."

This, then, is the first rambling of an annual disaster and a veiled warning of a situation which can be handled only by the rousing of public opinion. It is the cloud on the horizon "no larger than a man's hand," the first bad omen of the New Year and one which will undoubtedly develop into a serious crisis unless some meditative action is taken to bring the miners and the operators to a common ground of understanding. It is freely predicted already that the mine conference will be a failure and if it is nothing will stand between a public peril of the most serious dimensions—one which perhaps we are inclined to overlook and which we fail to grasp.

The whole country is feeling this winter the effect of the last coal strike which endured for months during the Summer and which prevented the accumulation of the supply of coal on which the nation feeds during the cold weather. We are suffering from it here in Danville. An enquiry among coal dealers will reveal a situation not equalled even during the days of war
when coal conservation became a national necessity. The local dealers are experiencing a hard-mouth existence.
Types of coal most used for domestic purposes are not to be had half of the time and the stocks held here are strictly limited and the shortage has quite naturally affected
the price of this necessity. If the condition such as described today exists what will be the next winter with another coal strike? It will mean a famine of the most acute proportions
and a slowing down of industry followed by a period of economic anarchy
of the most pernicious sort and disastrous to the whole country. Today
the larger cities in the North are actually on a ration basis. New York has not nearly the amount of coal it needs for domestic purposes and there has been considerable suffering with the advent of the first storm of winter
with its snow fall and frigid temperatures.

As usual the pending difficulties relate to wages and it is apparent inability of the mine workers and the operators to reach an agreement over the renewal of contracts this Spring
that raises the doubtful question of supply.

In the present predicament, national attention is turned to President Harding's fact-finding commission which was appointed months ago for the purpose of determining the rights and wrongs of the coal question. Presumably this organization is at work
and will not dodge the responsibility of placing the blame where it belongs
for the failure to reach a compromise.
Such a commission and its power to enforce public opinion should prove a powerful factor in some sort of agreement being reached. The public which invariably suffers from these industrial tribulations is heartily tired of the annual coal wrangle and will watch impatiently the early sparring
and will expect some sort of settlement which will ensure a normal coal supply at a reasonable price.

YOUNGEST CIVIL WAR SURGEON DEAD AT 82

Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 4.—Dr.
Edward J. Craighill, 82, who was probably the youngest surgeon in the Confederate Army during the Civil War and who quit that service here
in 1855 with the rank of major, died
at his home today, having been ill of infirmitas of some weeks.
A native of Charlottesville, now West
Virginia, he had lived here for about 65 years. He was a long time president of the board of aldermen here,
a former member of the board of the Central State Hospital, and at one time was president of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Society and engaged in the retail drug business here until he retired ten years ago.
Dr. Craighill had been a 324 degree Mason since 1877. He was graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in the class of 1851.
He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Miss Nellie Craighill, of Charlottesville, and Mrs. Bertha Craighill of Berryville, Va.

FROM TROPICAL CLIMATE

Middleport, O., Jan. 4.—Mrs.
George H. Hough, a 52-year-old woman, who had been in the tropics
for several years, died here today.
When she returned home she found
one of them hard boiled.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAPERS BRANCH, January 5.— (Grapevine Wireline) Once upon a time in the course of our peregrinations up and down the land, we had occasion to call on two old friends,
a widow and a maiden lady,
whom we had not seen for a long time. In the course of our conversation the widow
said:
"Well, I married when I was quite young. My husband died and I had him cremated. In about two years I married again;
he died and I had him cremated. And I married a third time and lived to cremate him."
"Ah," answered the maiden lady,
"wonderful are the ways of Providence.
Here I've lived all these years
and never been able to get married to one man, and you've had husbands to burn!"

bands deserve some sympathy, too!

The Other Fellow's Faults.

Ere you aim a mean blow at some fellow you know has been recently dropping behind, you had best take a look at your own record-book, to make you forbearing and kind. His rosier of wrong may be ever so long
and his path may be full of detours,
but why single out him as the blackest
there? When you'd better be studying yours!
For the minute you pause to discover the flaws in the fellow you look
on as snail, the chief author of woes
is right on his toes and is looking you
for a fall.
He will cut his snare so you won't know it there in a way that seems safe and correct, and when blindly you stray toward the trap he has set he'll call at your home to collect.
So will best be to sing of the blame worthy thing that you've done at your own expense, do not waste your time and heart on the fellow who has been playing just such a time about
you—Junius W. S.

I saw you in the city of the great northwest. You're going around a dangerous curve."

Many Millions Saved in New Jap Budget

TOKIO, Jan. 4.—A general reduction of national expenditures totaling approximately $5,500,000 American dollars, affecting every department of the Japanese Government
save the educational, brings the budget which Premier Admiral Baron Kato will send to the Diet this month to $75,000,000. This reduction in national expenses for next year is not as great as many expected, following the Premier's announcement that he would pursue a policy of financial retrenchment. Yet it is the greatest reduction ever made in Japan's expenditures except through the termination of warfare and the elimination of heavy fighting costs.
Of the saving, $35,500,000 was eliminated from this year's military expenditures, the majority of that figure being accounted for by the naval reduction effected at the Washington Conference. The other reduction came through administrative readjustments and postponement of national enterprises. The Depart-

Wants to Give Up Political Job

(Special to The Bee.)
YONKERS, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Justice
of the Peace Carrie M. Thomas will go before the state legislature
shortly to ask that her job be abolished.

The woman, who was the first in the state to be elected to such an office and whose townpeople gave her
the largest vote of any candidate, is willing to forego political distinction
if, by so doing, she can better the cause of the common people.
Justice Thomas would have courts
of conciliation supersede the office to which she was elected.
"The office of a justice used to be known as the poor man's court," she says, "but I soon discovered that this was not so. Hundreds of persons with small just claims were obliged to pass
them up because they could not pay
the fees."
"Under my plan courts would be established where litigants would be given legal advice without charge.
Then, if they still could not settle their differences, they could carry them into the higher courts."
In Politics for Good She'll Do.
"These courts of conciliation would be open courts for court paraphernalia is very impressive to certain types of mind. On the bench would be one, two or three judges who would serve without pay. These judges would be older lawyers or retired merchants and they would render decisions immediately."
"Nearly all small claims are just ones but the long waits imposed by legal processes frequently work severe hardship on the poor."
Although she has three years of her term yet to serve Justice Thomas is willing to have the office done away
with at once so that the new court
may be established.
She describes her attitude as characteristic of the woman in politics.

the glory they will get," she says, "but
for the good they can accomplish."

ment of Education is the only department to receive authorization for appropriation than that of this year.

The Kato Administration will ask
the Diet for approximately $15,000,- 000 more than the present year, which raises the educational budget of Japan
to the highest figure it has ever reached—$43,599,494. In that fact the elements of the country who have been opposing militarists for years
in an effort to secure more school
money find cause for gratification.
Plainly it is another evidence that Kato's "educational" Ministry is far more progressive than the recent party Cabinets. If this appropriation is pushed through the Diet—and there is every reason to believe that it will be—it will signalize fulfillment to some extent at least of one of the desires that the Naval Minister had
when he became Prime Minister.
Shortly after taking office Premier Kato, talking to your correspondent,
spoke of the great need for national retrenchment, adding that he hoped
to reduce all expenses of the Government as much as possible at once,
with the exception of the school fund
and that he hoped the Cabinet would
be able to make a substantial increase
in the educational appropriation.

Better Education

The increase will go to better existing schools, to increase the pay
of some classes of teachers, to raise five colleges and high schools to the rank of universities, to increase the courses of other colleges, to found a dental college and to all post-graduate courses, adding that he hoped
to reduce all expenses of the Government as much as possible at once,
with the exception of the school fund
and that he hoped the Cabinet would
be able to make a substantial increase
in the educational appropriation.

The Colonel looked more closely.
"God's my life!" he cried on a note of foolish jubilation. "And it was with these fellows that you took the Spindard and turned the tables
on those dogs! It was heroic!"
Colonel Bishop considered them.
"His excellency shall write home
an account of your exploit, and maybe some portion of your sentences
shall be remitted."

"The generosity of King James is well known," sneered Nathaniel Hagthorpe, who was standing by,
and amongst the ranged rebels considered one who ventured to laugh.

Colonel Bishop started up. He was pervaded by the first pang of uneasiness. It occurred to him that all here might not be as friendly as appeared.

And now another intervened—the brawny, one-eyed Wolverstone, less mercifully disposed than his gentlemanly fellow-convict.

"String him up from the yard-
arm," he cried, his deep voice harsh and angry, and more than one of the slaves standing by their arms
made echo.

Colonel Bishop trembled. Mr.
Blood turned. He was quite calm.
"You'll please to understand that aboard a ship there is one captain so." He swung again to the startled Colonel. "Though I promise
you your life, I must—as you've heard—keep you aboard as a hostage for the good behavior of Government Stead and what's left of the fort
until we put to sea."

"Until you?" Horror presented Colonel Bishop from echoing
the remainder of that incredible
speech.

"Just so," said Peter Blood, and he turned to the officers who had accompanied the Colonel. "The boat is waiting, gentlemen. You'll have heard what I said. Convey it with my compliments to his excellency."

"But, sir—" one of them began.

"There is no more to be said,
gentlemen. My name is Blood—Captain Blood. If you please, of this ship
the Cinco Lagras, taken as a prize
of war from Don Diego de Espinosa
y Valdez, who is my prisoner
aboard."

As they were running close to the headland east of the bay, Peter Blood returned to the Colonel, who,
under guard and panic-stricken, had dejectedly resumed his seat on the couch of the main hatch.

"Can you swim, Colonel?"
Colonel Blood looked up. His great face was yellow and seemed in that moment of a preternatural flashlight; his beady eyes were broader than ever.

"As your doctor, now, I prescribe
a swim to cool the excessive heat of your humors," Blood delivered the explanation pleasantly.

It was the thought of Ambrosia
Bishop that had urged him to mercy
and had led him to oppose the natural vindictiveness of his fellow slaves until he had been in danger
of precipitating a mutiny on the deck.

"You shall have a chance to swim
for it," Peter Blood continued. "It's not above a quarter of a mile to the beadland tender, and with ordinary luck you should manage it."

Peter Blood gave an order. A plank was run out over the gunwale,
and lashed down.

With the utmost calm he in-

CHAPTER X

Don Diego's Commission

DON DIEGO DE ESPINOSA Y
VALDEZ awoke, and with languid eyes in aching head, he looked round the cabin, which was flooded with sunlight from the square windows astern. Then he uttered a moan, and closed his eyes
again, impelled to this by the monstrous ache in his head.

He was beginning to torture his mind with conjecture, when the door
opened, and to Don Diego's increasing mystification he beheld his best suit of clothes step into the cabin.

The suit paused to close the door
then advanced toward the couch on which Don Diego was extended and inside the suit came a tall, slender gentleman of about Don Diego's own height and shape.

Don Diego struggled up into a sitting position on the red velvet
couch.

"Who the devil are you?" he asked. "And what the devil are you doing in my clothes and aboard my ship?"

Mr. Blood's black eyebrows went up, a faint smile curled the lips of the long mouth.

"You are still delicious, I fear.
This is not your ship. This is my ship, and these are my clothes."

"Your ship?" quoth the other,
achar, and still more against he added: "Your clothes? But—Then—"

Wildly his eyes looked about him. They scanned the cabin
once again, scrutinizing each familiar object. "Am I mad?" he asked at last. "Surely this ship is the Cinco Lagras?"

Succinctly now Captain Blood dispersed the mystery by a relation of the facts.

"And my son? What of my son?"
"Your son is safe; he and the boat's crew together with your gunner and his men are snugly in Irons
under hatches."

With the utmost calm he in-

quered:
"And now, Señor Captain?"
"Would you be willing, sir, to earn life and liberty—for yourself, your son, and the other Spaniards who are on board?"

"To earn it?" said Don Diego, and
the watchful blue eyes did not miss
the quiver that ran through him.
"To earn it?" he asked. "Why, if the service you would propose is one that cannot hurt my honor—"

"Could I be guilty of that?" protested the Captain. "I realize that even a pirate has his honor." And forthwith he propounded his offer.

"The only man among us schooled
in the art of navigation is fevered,
delirious, in fact, as a result of certain ill-treatment he received ashore
before we carried him away with us.
Of the higher mysteries of seamanship
and of the art of finding a way
over the trackless wastes of ocean,
we know nothing. We desire to make for the Dutch settlement of Curacao as straightly as possible.
Will you pledge me your honor, if I release you upon parole, that you will navigate us thither? If so, we will release you and your surviving men upon arrival there."

Don Diego bowed his head upon his breast.
"I accept," he said.

CHAPTER XI
Philly Pi

By virtue of the pledge he had given, Don Diego de Espinosa
enjoyed the freedom of the ship
that had been his, and the navigation which he had undertaken was left entirely in his hands.

"If this wind holds," he told them,
"we should reach Curacao inside
three days."

For three days the wind held, indeed it freshened a little on the second, and yet when the third night
descended upon them they had still made no landfall. Captain Blood uneasily mentioned it to Don Diego.

"It will be for tomorrow morning," he was answered with calm conviction.

Captain Blood passed on, content,
and went to visit Jerry Pitt, his patient, to whom he had given Don Diego
his chance of life. To indulge him Captain Blood consented that he should take the air on deck, and so, as the last of daylight was fading
from the sky, Jeremy Pitt came forth upon the Captain's arm. With the seaman's instinct his eyes wandered to the darkling vault of heaven, spangled already with a myriad golden points of light.
Awhile he scanned it idly, vacantly;
and then, his attention became sharply attracted, he started round and said to Captain Blood, who stood beside him:
"I've known anything of astronomy, Peter?" quoth he.
"Astronomy, is it? Faith, now, I couldn't tell the Belt of Orion from the Girdle of Venus."

You told me—didn't you?—that we came west of the archipelago between Tobago and Grenada, steering for Curacao. If that were our present course, we should have the North Star above our heads."

On the instant Mr. Blood shed his laziness. He sat up with apprehension, and was about to speak
when a snarl of light clove the gloom above their heads, coming from the door of the poop cabin
which had just been opened. Don Diego was approaching. Captain Blood's fingers pressed Jerry's shoulder with significance.

"With a slight dispute for the North Star," said he lightly. "We are arguing, Mr. Pitt and I, as to which is the North Star."
"So?" The Spaniard's tone was easy. "But you tell me Mr. Pitt he is your navigator?"
"For lack of a better," laughed the Captain, good humoredly contemptu-
ous. "Now I am ready to wager him
a hundred pieces of eight that that is the North Star." And he flung

Argument in Case Liquor On Ships Was Completed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—Oral argument in the case involving the question whether foreign ships are prohibited by the 18th amendment and the enforcement act from bringing intoxicating liquors into the United States at their sea stores was concluded in the Supreme Court today.

Solicitor General Beck in behalf of the government, urged the court to construe the amendment and the enforcement act as prohibiting the possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors in all cases except where Congress specifically provides that exceptions should be made, adding that it had not done so with reference to sea stores. Former Attorney General George W. Wickesham, of counsel for the foreign steamship companies, contended that the constitutional amendment and enforcement act should be interpreted with regard to the comity among nations and that since Congress had not legislated on the subject of intoxicating liquors as a part of the sea stores, the bringing of such liquors into the ports of the United States by foreign ships did not constitute either "possession" or "transportation" as forbidden by the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act. He attributed to the use of liquor as a beverage were emphasized by the solicitor general, who declared the adoption of the prohibition amendment was the third great revolution which had marked the progress of the people in protecting themselves. In this instance he said, the intent was to change the habits of many people and he added he was forced to admit that it was questionable whether the experiment would prove a complete success.

Mr. Wickesham asserted that it could not be the duty of the government to go to the extreme which Mr. Beck had described, since the sale of liquor was licensed in the ships and the government had not shown any indication to shut off the supply which would result in the foreign embassies and legations. Confiscation of foreign warships entering American ports or vessels found in the water with intoxicating liquors aboard, he added, would follow the government's contention.

Solicitor General Beck, when questioned by the court with reference to Mr. Wickesham's contention that the government was not to go to the extreme which Mr. Beck had described, since the sale of liquor was licensed in the ships and the government had not shown any indication to shut off the supply which would result in the foreign embassies and legations. Confiscation of foreign warships entering American ports or vessels found in the water with intoxicating liquors aboard, he added, would follow the government's contention.

The court revealed deep interest in the various phases of the controversy frequently questioning counsel. Many of the questions were highly technical and some were decidedly pointed. Chief Justice Taft asked the solicitor general whether in construing an act of Congress, in view of the international custom, a construction in conformity with international usage should not be given. Mr. Beck replied that the court had not given such a decision in the Grogan and Anchor Line cases.

Justice McReynolds asked Mr. Beck whether he contended that if a ship from one foreign port to another should come within the three-mile limit with liquor aboard, it would not be subject to seizure and he received an unqualified reply in the affirmative.

Justice Holmes with questions regarding embargo liquor, drew from the solicitor general the contention that a ship from one foreign port to another should come within the three-mile limit with liquor aboard, it would not be subject to seizure and he received an unqualified reply in the affirmative.

Pollard Indicted For First Degree Murder By Jury

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 4.—Following his indictment by a Hastings Court grand jury late today on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of his former stenographer, Mrs. Thelma Richardson on the night of December 11, Thomas Pollard was permitted to view his bond of $50,000 and was released from custody pending trial of the case on February 12. Renewal of the defendant's bond was granted by Judge D. C. Richardson over the vigorous protest of Commonwealth's Attorney Dave E. Satterfield and Special Prosecutor Richard Evelyn Byrd, who insisted that Pollard be remanded to jail without bail.

The indictment, charging first degree murder, was returned by the grand jury after a lengthy deliberation of the case. Witnesses called before the inquisitorial body included Herbert E. Richardson, divorced husband of the slain woman and Mrs. Bertha Louise Beck, alleged "other woman" in the case. Examination of these witnesses, indicated by the Commonwealth's Attorney, was one of the state's trump cards in the trial of Pollard, required less than ten minutes. The examination of police officers and a number of people who live in the vicinity of the Pollard home was lengthy and practically all of the forenoon was spent by the jury in hearing these witnesses.

Pollard is charged with "deliberate, premeditated and malicious murder." The indictment recites the manner in which Mrs. Richardson was shot, setting forth that the bullet struck her in the left chest, penetrating the heart, one lung and other vital organs, causing instant death. It is averred that Pollard fired the pistol deliberately with the intention of killing the woman and that he acted with malice aforethought.

GIRL DUPED BY LICENSE ASKS FOR 'ANNULMENT'

ELYRIA, O., Jan. 4.—Rose Lubitz met men who told her that a license alone was sufficient evidence of the legality of wedlock. She believed them. The couple were "married" August 12 last and lived deserted her October 15, Rose said. Asking the Court to set her "marriage" aside, she claimed ignorance of Ohio's marriage laws.

BY DICK SMITH
 KANSAS CITY, Jan. 4.—The slight decline in deposits shown by some of the banks in this section in the last three months is today attributed here to increased business activities. The relation of profits to loan accounts shows the banks in excellent condition.

Consumers are responding freely to the semi-annual sales of retailers which have been heavily advertised in newspapers and which have cleared the shelves of a tremendous quantity of merchandise, particularly wearing apparel and dry goods.
 Now that merchants have had a chance to check up it is seen that December's business was far in advance of their expectations. Wholesalers report a decided improvement in hats, caps and shoes, with a tendency on the part of retailers to buy in larger quantities.

Trial Separation for Peggy

London and New York separate Peggy Marshall and her husband, Albert Johnson (insult)—It's a "trial separation" to test the true worth of their love, according to Peggy. She went abroad after Johnson was shot last summer at Jack Clifford's camp, taking her son, the child of the late Henry Field, with her. But Peggy and Albert are heavy contributors to the cable companies' profits.

LUMBER PRODUCTION

IS DOWN 50 PER CENT
 BY PAUL C. HENDRICK
 SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—The holiday check of the lumber industry brought production down 50 per cent, but new business booked has been about 75 per cent more than production, while shipments were only 2 per cent. below the new orders placed. Mills are rapidly getting back to production at or above normal capacity.
 Ten million dollars worth of silk arrived here from the Orient this week for shipment by rail to Atlantic coast points. Bank deposits here have increased almost 10 per cent in the last year, while savings accounts have grown at an even greater pace. Borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank are negligible so far as Seattle institutions are concerned.

WILL WRITTEN ON ENVELOPE

WINCHESTER, Va., Jan. 4.—A notation scribbled on a bit of yellow paper, apparently a portion of an envelope, has been admitted to probate in the chancery court here as the last will and testament of Mrs. Annie M. Claggett, of Marlboro. The will, one of the briefest on record here, bequeaths $1,500 in bonds to H. N. Claggett, husband of the decedent, and $100 each to ten grand children.

FARMERS FAIRLY WELL OFF

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—Farmers of all sections of the West and Southwest are fairly well off financially at the start of the New Year. They have cash surpluses and are buying machinery, tools, equipment and supplies. All basic conditions are sound, but it is noticeable that costs and prices have a tendency to advance. Notwithstanding generous holiday spending, savings deposits have increased.

Soft Satin and Chiffon, Silver Cloth and Beads

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Softest reseda green satin makes this lovely skirt with its center-front drape. The bodice is of silver cloth with waist portion of chiffon matching perfectly the color of the satin skirt.
 The ornament is of silver and steel beads and in addition to its decorative value gives occasion for the front drapery and adds a length line to the gown, which is essential where dignity is so much to be desired.
 The salvage of the material, instead of a hem, is used at the bottom, the skirt being made on the cross to make one seam, which folds under a deep tuck at the right side in the back.

ACTORS IN "EAST IS WEST" SUCCESSFUL AS CHINAMEN

Difficult as it is for an American actor successfully to make up as a Chinaman, it is a still harder task for an actor who must be photographed in scenes in which he appears with several real Chinamen, with slant eyes, pig tails and the inscrutability of the true Oriental.

Nevertheless this difficult feat is accomplished with signal success by four well known actors appearing in support of Constance Talmadge, the brilliant screen star, in "East Is West," a First National attraction which will be shown on Monday and Tuesday at the Broadway Theatre.

Go Warner Oland falls the finest part as Charlie Yung, the Americanized Chinaman who covets Ming Toy. This role was one of the most prominent in the play "East Is West" during its run of two seasons on the speaking stage of Broadway. Mr. Oland makes it equally significant on the screen as do the real Celestials with whom they appear.

BELIEVE BUSINESS NEXT 6 MONTHS WILL BE GOOD

BY GUY T. ROCKWELL
 CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—Industrial leaders here are unanimous today in the belief that business in the next six months will continue at the present pace or exceed it.

Few, however, are willing to predict the course of commercial events after next June.

Steel men declared that business today was far ahead of where it was a year ago. Sheet mills are well booked and some producers intimate they may withdraw from the market. This is taken here as an assumption that they expect higher prices.

The Newton Steel Company has placed two more sheet mills in operation this week and the Shenango Furnace is producing at a greatly increased pace.

Eye of Pig

Sight may be restored to 13-year-old Alfred Lenanowicz of Lyndhurst, N. J. He is about to have his sightless eye replaced by the eye of a pig. Dr. Edward A. Morgan of Paterson, N. J., performed a similar operation some time ago which proved successful.

REAL ESTATE IS ACTIVE

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—The unofficial announcement of the coming of the $10,000,000 Ford Motor Company plant here already has stimulated activity in real estate and business circles and preparations are being made to cater to the trade of the new industrial population the plant will bring. Minneapolis is expected to benefit, as well as St. Paul.

STOCKS OF GOODS LIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—Inventories in the business houses indicate that in general stocks of goods today are light. In dry goods, hardware, steel, paints, shoes and underwear, stocks are about normal, while supplies of leather and oils are heavy.

ORDER PUBLICATION.

Issued by order of the Clerk of the Corporation Court of Danville, entered on the 21st day of December, 1922.

VIRGINIA. In the Clerk's Office of the Corporation Court of Danville, on the 21st day of December, 1922.

Mary Lue Newman Plaintiff against Arthur Lee Newman Defendant

IN CHANCERY.

The object of this suit is to obtain from the said Court a decree divorcing the plaintiff Mary Lue Newman, a mensa et thoro from the said defendant, Arthur Lee Newman, upon the grounds of cruelty and desertion.

And an affidavit having been made and duly filed that the said defendant, Arthur Lee Newman, is a non-resident of the State of Virginia, it is therefore ordered that he do appear here within ten days after due publication of this order once a week for four successive weeks in the Bee a newspaper published in the City of Danville, Virginia, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

We announce the opening of our new market at Five Forks. This is our fourth market and our thirty-third year in the meat business in this city. You want the best, you get it from us. We strive at all times to buy the best that can be bought. We aim to give the best of service and sell at all times the lowest possible prices, quality always considered. We sell only what a meat market should sell, and you will find at all times anything you want in meats at our markets. We thank you for your patronage in the past and assure you of our appreciation.

CLEAN TABLE COVERS

are inviting and give such a pleasing atmosphere to your home. Why bother trying to wash and iron them at home when we will "do them up" at small cost, white and spotless? Our cleaning of bed spreads, table linens, pillow cases, bed linens, etc., is equally high class. We guarantee that snow white finish, an assurance of purity and cleanliness.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD STOCKYARD

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 4.—Fire late this afternoon swept the old Union Stock Yard warehouses in Berkley, occupied as winter quarters by the J. F. Murphy Shows, of Augusta, Ga. Nearly all of the animals were saved but the greater part of the fixtures and equipment of the circus was destroyed. J. F. Murphy tonight said that his losses would reach $150,000. He carried no insurance.

Many of the cattle in C. B. Shloss's stock yards in the rear of the warehouses perished.

The blaze was caused by the explosion of an oil stove in the home of Mrs. Fred Powell, adjoining the warehouse. Personal effects of thirty-five attaches of the circus were lost in the blaze.

Tiger Tim Healy

(Special to The Bee.)
LONDON, Jan. 3.—"Tim" Healy, the Irish Free State's first governor general, is known by the same nickname as ex-Premier Clemenceau of France—"The Tiger."

It is a title "Tim" won by his ferocity in debate during his long career as an "Irish home ruler" in parliament.

Stories are told without end of the verbal encounters in which he came off with first honors.

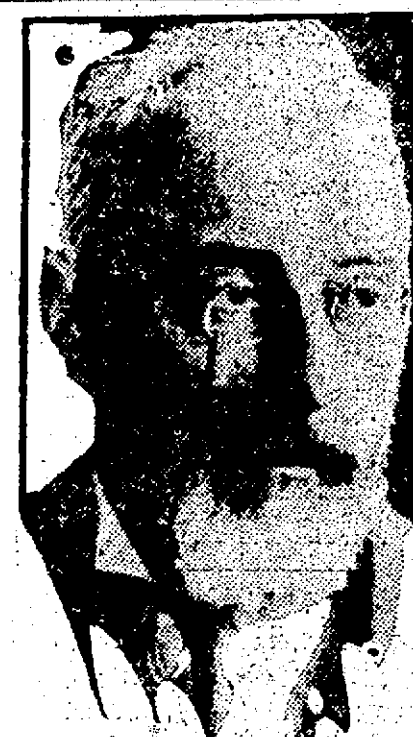

He never liked Joseph Chamberlain, who began his political life as a Liberal and later joined the Tories. In the English phrase, "he ratted." One night in the House of Commons, the Liberal leader being absent, and his followers with nobody to keep them in order, rather noisy, Chamberlain remarked, "When the cat's away the mice will play." "And the rats," added Healy.

During the Boer War, when bitter charges of stupidity were being made against the British generals in the field, a member of parliament asked how many horses had been sent to Africa. "And how many mules?" he continued, when the first question had been answered. "Yes, and how many asses?" interrupted "the tiger."

"I'd rather vote for the devil than for you!" shouted an elector during a speech "Tim" was making as a parliamentary candidate. "Right, stick by your pals!" rejoined Healy.

Often "Tim" was merely jocose, not virulent.

Once a debate was arranged between himself and Prof. "Tom" Kettle, the "assid" to decide which should start and Healy won. "The kettle having lost its spout," he began, and then plunged into his subject.

TIMOTHY HEALY

A politician who disliked the great "home rule" champion, John Dillon, asked Healy one day why the Irish elected him, time after time, to parliament. "Tim" was a friend of Dillon, but the latter's heavy dignity and deeply melancholy look amused him. "They keep him," he explained, "for attending funerals."

Gets Burglar Fleeing In Taxicab After Daring Chase On Broadway

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The gay white way trembled today when an alleged burglar fired several shots in a crowd pursuing him, hit a man and a woman, and fled in a taxicab he commandeered.

A few minutes it experienced a thrill when a policeman, giving chase in another car through tangled traffic, jumped to the running board of the fleeing machine and beat its occupant unconscious with the butt of his own revolver.

The man, who identified himself as John Russo, of West Orange, N. J., was seized by the police to have been caught in an ineffectual attempt to break into a theatrical rooming house in West Forty-fourth street. He broke through a crowd which surged about him, leveled his automatic and fired shots, fleeing to Broadway.

Heated his weapon at the first taxi driver he saw and forced him to race downtown.

Patrolman Halstead, off duty and riding in his own motor, caught sight of the taxi and, seeing the crowd of excited policemen running after it, gave chase.

Both cars zigzagged through traffic at breakneck speed, while crowds on the sidewalks watched spellbound. At Forty-third street "the cat" came abreast. Russo pointed his pistol at Halstead and pulled the trigger. It was empty.

Halstead jammed on his brakes, took a flying leap and landed on the taxi's running board, pulled the empty weapon from Russo's hand and using it as a club, beat his quarry to unconsciousness.

The woman struck by one of Russo's shots suffered a slight flesh wound. The man was hit in the hip. Russo, arrested for attempted burglary and for carrying a concealed weapon, admitted, he police said, that he had a companion earlier in the day had robbed the apartment of Helen Shirer, an actress, in the West Forty-fourth street rooming house. He had returned, he said, according to the police, to break into a safe in the same house when he was surprised at his work. He was quoted by the police as saying he had committed 14 burglaries in the theatrical district and that a confederate had checked a bag with $2000 swag at the Pennsylvania station.

Lloyd George
Rhine Stories

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The Rhineland commission has suppressed editions of German newspapers publishing Lloyd George's articles dealing with France's Rhineland policy. The commission says:

"Explanations and disclosures made by a certain politician of the allied group, appearing with propaganda-making headlines, are only calculated to create public disturbances.

"The commission gives warning that in the future no such publications will be allowed."

82 WEDS 38; TO TOUR WORLD

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—He is eighty-two, she fifty-eight. He is a widower, she a divorcee. Now they are happily married and about to begin a two-year honeymoon around the world.

He is Albert Blair, widely known lawyer of St. Louis. "She" formerly was Mrs. Susan N. Eddy, of New York. They married Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, pastor of the Baptist Temple, Broad and Berks streets.

The marriage became public today. Mr. Blair lives at No. 5652 Westminister Place. His first wife divorced her first husband September 13, 1921, at Denver, Col., on a charge of desertion.

Painting of Nativity May Be Long Lost Work

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Art experts have been asked by the pastor of the Catholic church of the Assumption, in Brooklyn, to determine whether a painting of the nativity, just presented to the church, is the fourth in a series by Correggio, which has been missing for hundreds of years.

The canvas, found in a discarded heap in a small art shop in Brooklyn some years ago by Henry Hymans, a collector, was presented to the church by his son.

"My father," said Mr. Hymans, "firmly believed that the canvas was the missing Correggio and he valued it at $100,000."

Two of the nativity group by Correggio now hang in the Dresden and Parma galleries. A third was destroyed in a church fire in the sixteenth century.
